

Refresher stream:

Common arrhythmias in the emergency setting

In the emergency setting, we are commonly confronted with cardiac arrhythmias either as a consequence of an underlying disease or as a primary cause of potentially life-threatening clinical signs. This refresher lecture aims to provide a practical summary of the most common tachy- and bradyarrhythmias in the emergency room, their ECG diagnosis and management.