

Joanna Kaczmarczyk, RVN, Cert VNECC

RECOVER BLS & ALS Instructor

RVN, Emergency and Critical Care, Vets Now, United Kingdom

She graduated from the Veterinary Technical School in Nowy Targ (Poland) and began her career working in small animal practices in the Silesia region. She later gained valuable clinical experience in both Poland and the United Kingdom, where she worked as a Registered Veterinary Nurse at Vets Now Emergency & Critical Care from 2014.

In 2021, she completed her specialisation in Emergency & Critical Care Veterinary Nursing, earning the Cert VNECC qualification. She further expanded her expertise by becoming a certified RECOVER BLS & ALS Instructor, contributing to the advancement of veterinary resuscitation training.

In Poland, Joanna plays an active role in developing veterinary emergency medicine. She serves as Chair of the Veterinary Technician Section of the Polish Association of Veterinary Emergency and Critical Care (PAVECC). As Head of Nursing Staff at VETERIO, the first referral veterinary hospital in Poland, she has been instrumental in establishing high standards of patient care and clinical protocols.

She also runs a consulting and training business, collaborating with major veterinary groups such as LuxVet and Edina Care, and delivering ECC training to veterinary teams across Poland and the United Kingdom.
