

Dr Rafał Boroń, DVM, PgCertSAECC, MRCVS

RECOVER BLS & ALS Instructor

Clinical Director, Head of Emergency and Critical Care, Veterio, Warsaw, Poland

He holds a Postgraduate Certificate in Small Animal Emergency and Critical Care (PgCertSAECC) and is a certified RECOVER BLS & ALS Instructor, actively contributing to the advancement of resuscitation standards in veterinary medicine.

Rafał gained significant experience in the United Kingdom, where he worked as a Clinical Leader Veterinary Surgeon within the Vets Now Group, managing an Emergency & Critical Care clinic in Stoke-on-Trent, providing him with broad exposure to high-volume emergency caseloads and advanced critical care practice.

He is currently Clinical Director at VETERIO, where he leads the development of emergency and intensive care services, focusing on high clinical standards, team development, and implementation of advanced ECC protocols.

Rafał is a co-founder of the Polish Association of Veterinary Emergency and Critical Care (PAVECC) and an active member of international organisations including IVECCS and EVECCS. He regularly participates in international conferences and training programmes, and is actively involved in delivering ECC education and practical training to veterinary teams in both the UK and Poland.

His professional interests include advanced emergency care, critical patient stabilisation, and team-based approaches to ECC medicine, with a strong focus on improving clinical outcomes through education and protocol-driven practice.
